

Fenway franks

finding decent seats at Fenway Park without k introduces a new "curse" altogether. If you're who can't get our hands on the golden tickets, ve friends with private-box hook-ups, stop by Park Plaza Hotel & Towers, 50 Park Plaza, Boston, which offers the next best game-day set-up. The cently added Sox-inspired specials, available all ome and away games, to their bar menu. Fans Crispy Fried Plantains with garlic-lime aioli ($9) or er Guacamole ($17), hand-made and served with shrimp, while they catch the game on the bar's Vs. That sounds a tad more exciting than watching ur couch with a bag of Cheetos, doesn't it?

Popped-collar polos in pink, boat shoes sans socks, blond ponytails, and madras shorts: if these things don't scream summertime on the East Coast, we don't know what does. And if you're looking for the perfect complement to your Nantucket-ready ensemble, we've found just the thing: Bunny & Chad Bunny Totes, available locally at In the Pink (133 Newbury Street, Boston, 617.536.6423) and online at www.bunnyandchad.com. The impeccably preppy totes ($55/small; $65/large), adorned with a perky bow, are ideal for stashing your oversize sunglasses and bottled water during a bronzing session at the beach or a post-tennis cocktail hour. The line was dreamed up by owner/designer Rebecca Ryan, an Andover native. Keep an eye out for a new line of hobo bags and clutches, set to arrive on her Web site in early fall.
